2nd Semester Brings Biology, Psych On TV

Both psychology and biology will be on the air next semester on closed circuit television. The two classes will be broadcast from the KWOV studio in the Applied Arts Building.

Dr. Charles Ingham, currently teaching Introduction to Biology will continue next semester. With the use of the new video tape equipment, the shows can be shown to night classes as well as those during the day.

Dr. Ingham recently took a poll and found three fourths of the people now taking biology liked it once they were used to it. Dr. Ingham said that he enjoys working with television, but there was a lot of work in it.

Dr. W. E. Jaynes will be teaching Introduction to Psychology. All of the Introduction to Psychology class will be taught via television.

"Less than one half the total class time will actually be on TV," said Dr. Jaynes, Graduate interns will be in charge of discussion groups in which they will also give demonstrations, grade exams, and review lectures.

In this way the students will have contact with the person who grades them. Movies will be shown in all the discussion groups.

Dr. Jaynes stated that closed circuit teaching is better than teaching live when there are over 200 people in the class.

Last spring Dr. Jaynes did a TV class study on other campuses. He found that students who took the same class over TV did better than the students who took the same course live.

Gary Nielson will direct the psychology class for special projects in television. Mr. James Onder, speech instructor, will direct the biology class again. Students will work crew on both shows.

1964 Filled With News; Gateway Recalls Year

With this edition, the 1964 Gateways are complete. Looking back over the year, the editors have found it filled with news events of import to all at the university. With this in mind, the Gateway takes a brief look back to relive the past year.

February

Early in the month, the university made plans for the construction of a wing on the Applied Arts building. The same week, Sheri Hronek was named editor of the 1965 Yearbook, the TOMAHAWK. The problem of traffic entering campus cropped up, but this time OU, along with the City of Omaha, made plans to widen Dodge Street to five lanes, from Fifty-second to Sixty-second Streets, allowing westbound cars to turn left on to the campus. "Omaha University would have a new door." Thursday, February 28, brought sad news. Dr. Milo Bail announced his resignation to the Board of Regents. He would leave September, 1965. Later the date was moved up to February, 1965. Regents and faculty members shifted into high gear to find a replacement.

March

March blew in with the naming of Bob Burge as the commander of the AFROTC Corps on campus. Sir Tyrone Guthrie visited OU lecturing on Shakespeare in connection with the celebration of the Bard's 400th anniversary. Dr. Bail warned later in the month of a tuition increase unless 550 thousand dollars was appropriated for the university by September 1. At the same time he stated the university would not ask for a one mill increase on the November ballot.

April

The month roared in with talk of Omaha University becoming a part of the University of Nebraska under a plan proposed by State Senator Marvin Stromer. Charges and counter-charges filled the air until Senator Stromer finally said he had no plans to force OU into the arrangement. The Board of Regents voted to sell the necessary land to the City of Omaha to facilitate the new "door to OU" and the widening of Dodge Street.

May

Professor Roderic Crane announced his retirement and the Physical Plant Department sodded over the unused drive entering the campus at 62nd Street. Earlene Timm was elected Ma-ie Day Princess and Dr. Bail's warning of a tuition hike rang true. At the close of the semester the Board of Regents voted a three-dollar-per-hour increase effective in September.

June - July - August

Dr. Leland Traywick was hired as president succeeding Milo Bail. United States Representative Glenn Cunningham stirred up the summer heat with attacks on the university for its choice. Construction went ahead on the new Applied Arts bldg. wing.

September

September slipped up sooner than expected and Dick Smith took over as editor of the Gateway succeeding Bill Grow, the Spring semester editor of the student newspaper. More than eight thousand students (a record) flocked on campus to find the AA building wing complete and new pedestal seats (later known as "OU's cheat seats") in one of the new rooms. Dr. Bail instituted three new programs of study at OU: The technical institute, computer center and the urban affairs center. Virgil Sharpe, OU registrar, envisioned new methods of registering in 1965 and the World Affairs Institute got rolling with the announcement of six international lecturers to highlight the Wednesday night programs.

October

Parking popped to the top of the list of events when OU issued six thousand "illegal" windshield parking permits. A quick huddle by administrative heads solved the "sticky" problem. Biology went on the "tube" starring Dr. Charles Ingham. (He'll do a repeat performance next semester along with the psychology department.) The presidential campaign hit a peak with the appearance of Senator Barry Goldwater's son, Mike, on campus. Gateway reporter Paul Henderson unfolded a two-part story on the summer hassle with OU and Glenn Cunningham over the hiring of Dr. Leland Traywick as the new "chief" of the OU tribe. Dr. A. Stanley Trickett of the history department, returned from England after observing the British elections. Seventy-two hundred "legal" parking permits arrived and Dean Donald Pfisterer's office began the job of mailing them to students. OU cars were once again within the law. Rev. D. Wright Lunsford, First Christian Church pastor, issued his first warning on parking in the church's east lot and driveways. Shari Zagor was elected Homecoming Princess.

November

The Serendipity Singers and the Oscar Peterson Trio performed before four thousand OU fans. The Gene Eppley Library staff reported a total of 25 hundred books missing from the library after the first inventory taken in the facility's history. Charles A. Harkness, university studies head, reported the first year of the OU junior college plan was "a great success."

December

Francee Ernst captured the TOMAHAWK Beauty Contest crown. Dean Pfisterer announced the university would participate in the College Work-Study Program under the Anti-Poverty Law if student interest warranted. Dr. Bail called for an overall study of the state of Nebraska's educational facilities to be financed by an appropriation by the 1965 unicameral. The Student Center was rededicated in honor of Dr. Bail.

The history for 1965 has not yet been written, but many events are near at hand. Dr. Traywick will take over the helm in February. Educational television will get rolling in September. Two classes of seniors will be graduated and another bumper crop of freshmen will be enrolled. All else...

Keyser, Abel Take Command Of OU Cadets

Cadet Col. James Keyser was named commander of the 470th AFROTC Cadet Group Thursday, by Lt. Col. E. P. Ratti, professor of aerospace studies at Omaha University. Raymond E. Abel, Jr. was promoted to the rank of Cadet Lt. Colonel.

Keyser said beginning this year there will be three Group Commanders a year instead of two as in the past. "Other than the Cadet Colonel and Cadet Lt. Colonel, no changes will be made until the end of this semester," he said. "At that time, the rest of the cadet staff will be changed."

Keyser succeeds William P. Applegate, who will keep his rank and act as adviser to the cadet corps. The third Group Commander will be appointed during the first part of March. The new commander, a senior at OU majoring in civil engineering, is the executive officer of the Arnold Air Society. He was last year's president of the Society of American Military Engineers (SAME) and is a member of the American Society of Civil Engineers.

OU Yule Special Aired By KETV

A special Christmas show will be broadcast from the University of Omaha's television studios by KETV, channel 7, at 3 p.m. December 27.

The program will feature a woodwind choir under the direction of Kermit Peters, assistant professor of music at OU. Pat Halloran, a senior in radio and TV, will co-produce the half-hour show along with Ragan, TV engineer.

The program will attempt to show the true meaning of Christmas and other events surrounding the birth of Christ. Students will handle the entire production.

OU Christmas Decorations Echo Spirit Around Campus

The computer center is ringing with Christmas carols and the Milo Bail Student Center is perfumed with the smells of Christmas.

Omaha University's 1620 computer in the Applied Arts building has been programed to play "White Christmas" with the aid of a radio. In addition to the music, the computer center has its own "decorations." They are in the form of x's placed all over pieces of paper. These x's make patterns of both Christmas and winter scenes. The x's, of course, are the work of the 1620.

Five Trees

Then there's the Milo Bail Student Center with its five Christmas trees, six-foot wreath and 120 feet of green rope. The biggest tree, a 13 foot Northern pine, is located in the ballroom. A seven foot Scotch pine is situated in front of the information desk on the first floor.

The upstairs cafeteria is decorated with a five foot Scotch pine. Another Scotch pine, a three footer, is located in the faculty dining room and the corridor in the Student Activities office has a two foot Scotch pine.

One hundred fifty pounds of greens were needed to make the traditional wreath hanging on the east window of the building. The wreath measures six feet in circumference. The OUampi room is decorated with 120 feet of green rope.

Other Decorations

On the second floor of the Administration building just inside the north entrance stands a nine foot Scotch pine. Beautifully decorated, this tree also has become a tradition over the years. And again this year the cupola is decorated with the red star.

Now all that remains to be decorated are lawn and the trees outside—with snow, that is.

According to Physical Plant Superintendent Clarence Lefler, the burglary took place sometime between 4:30 and 7 a.m. Sunday.

Entrance was gained by breaking the glass from the northwest door of the AA building. The theft was discovered by the night watchman on his 7 a.m. round.

DODGE DIVISION  CHRYSLER
MOTORS CORPORATION

Got a second? Lend an ear. Dodge's all new, hot new Coronet 500 has got an awful lot going for it (besides your girl). For instance: buckets and backup lights, full carpeting and a console, spinners and a padded dash—all standard equipment. More? Much! Like an engine lineup that would make any car squeal for joy: 273, 318, 361, 383 or 426 cubic inches. Like a lean and hungry look. And like a low, low price tag—Coronet costs less than any full-size Dodge in years. We can't hope to make you a believer with an ad, so we'd like to extend an invitation—come and see the 1965 Coronet 500 at your nearest Dodge dealer's. Bring your girl along . . . it makes for a cheap date.

Rally Falls Short . .

Rockhurst Drops Omaha Five; Indians Invade St. Benedict's Sat.

Coach Jim Borsheim's Omaha basketball team invades ex-CIC foe St. Benedict's College at Atchison, Kansas, tomorrow night.

The game is the second of the pre-Xmas swing. The Indians lost to Rockhurst, 75-72 at Kansas City Wednesday. The Ravens are a solid choice to reap NAIA District honors with ten returning lettermen off last year's squad that dropped OU twice.

Omaha will play in the Hastings Holiday Tournament starting December 26th.

The Indians took fifth at Hastings a year ago, downing Southern State of South Dakota in the final round of tournament play. Losses were to Morning-side and Mankato State, eventual tourney champion.

Rockhurst Wins . . .

Omaha University, despite a torrid comeback in the final minutes, lost a 75-72 heart-breaker to defending NAIA champ Rockhurst at Kansas City Wednesday.

The number 4 rated Hawks were leading by ten points with two minutes to go, but a furious Omaha rally, led by Charley Myers and Sam Singleton, fell short at the buzzer.

The Indians trailed, 38-36, at the half, but made a nip and tuck game out of it throughout. The tide turned late in the second half with Omaha down by a point.

Sam Singleton raced in for a dunk shot but officials disallowed it. Moments later, a Rockhurst player did the same thing and it was allowed. The questionable ruling seemed to stun OU spirits and the Hawks quickly took their fatal ten point margin.

Good at Home

The win was number four for Rockhurst. Strangely all four wins have been at home while the Missouri team is 0-3 on the road.

Pittsburg Falls . .

Omaha U climbed to the top spot in the CIC standings last Saturday night with a wild and wooly, 79-70 win over Pittsburg State at the OU Fieldhouse.

A season high crowd of over 1600 got their money's worth as:

—Big Sam Singleton set the house on fire with 26 points and some fantastic shooting.

—Each team was charged with two technical fouls.

—Singleton tore down the East basket on a dunk effort . . the game was delayed twenty minutes for repair.

—The two teams were tied sixteen times during the game.

Not until just over ten minutes left in the game could the run-run Indians take complete command of the game.

Pittsburg's big front line of Jim Chroust, Tom Meadows and Frank Cuzkatji kept the Omahans on their toes with some fancy shooting from the outside for most of the first half.

Omaha kept in the game early largely through the heroics of freshman Bill Haas. The surprise starter dumped in five early baskets to keep OU on top.

Singleton's three point play just before the buzzer gave the teams a 39-all tie at intermission.

The downfall of the basket was a marvel to behold. Singleton took a feed from Charley Myers, raced in and jammed the ball down through the hoop. Unfortunately, Big Sam grabbed the rim on the way down and the metal hoop crumpled under his weight.

Sam and the hoop both came down, with the OU jumping jack looking not a little sheepish over the whole affair. It took twenty minutes to repair the damage, during which time the crowd was entertained by the announcement of the Nebraska upset of Michigan.

For his efforts, Singleton was rewarded with a technical foul . . as justice would have it, the Pittsburg shooter missed.

OU pulls away

The Gorillas came within 68-66 with just under five minutes to go but free throws by Singleton and Myers pulled the Indians out.

Meadows got 26 and Chroust 20 for the Kansas team. Singleton's 26 and Marlin Briscoe's 16 were tops for the Borsheim crew.

It was the third straight win for Omaha—all at home, while Pittsburg fell to 3-2.
